Protests, rites greet Ford visit

TOYO (UPI) — Protected by the tightest security the nation has seen since World War II, President Ford arrived in Japan on the first leg of a Far East trip today amid student riots and a threatened nationwide protest strike.

Dressed in a blue suit and blue shirt, Ford appeared tired when he stepped off Air Force One at Haneda Airport with Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger after a grueling, 16-hour flight across many time zones.

His welcome was staid and highly controlled by security considerations — a 21-gun salute, a red carpet and a carefully selected crowd of 2,500 Japanese and 150 Americans on the spectator deck, many of them waving Japanese flags.

"It was a sunny day, and I believe that was a good sign for my trip as the first American president to visit Japan," Ford later said of his arrival.

"The welcome was warm and friendly and I look forward to seeing more of the Japanese people."

But security prevented any hand-shaking or speech-making. Instead, Ford was taken quickly from the tightly guarded airport by helicopter to a private, European-style guest house in central Tokyo.

There he dined with Kissinger and staff and met early in the morning for his meetings Tuesday with Emperor Hirohito and Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka.

Ten minutes before Air Force One set down a band of 1,300 students from an ultraright political group clashed violently with police at a park two miles from the airport. Police arrested 156 of the students, raising to 100 the number of protesters placed in custody as the result of protests against Ford's visit.

Some 325 million Japanese workers from 10 unions have called a protest strike Tuesday.

About 250,000 employees of government-controlled Japan National Railways will halt service for 12 hours and trains on the country's privately owned railroads will be sidled all day by a walkout of 220,000 employees.

Despite the protests, Ford understood his five-day Japanese visit as a show of good will and sources said the President expected to extend an invitation to Hirohito to visit the United States in 1975.

Preparing for subsequent stops in South Korea and Vladivostok, where Ford will hold summit talks with Soviet leader Leonid I. Brezhnev, Kissinger told reporters aboard Air Force One that the chances are better than 50-50 that the United States will sign a job-year treaty limiting offensive and defensive missiles with the Soviets by next year.

Tax reform hopes abandoned

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Ways and Means Committee today abandoned hopes of widespread tax reform this year and moved toward approval of a smaller bill increasing oil company taxes by at least $2.5 billion and giving some relief to lower income taxpayers.

Speaker Carl Albert promised to push the bill to the House floor if the Ways and Means Committee approved the bill Tuesday as planned.

Messenger

CHICAGO (UPI) — Simas Rudzika, the Lithuanian sailor who spent almost four years in a Soviet labor camp, is trying to escape to the West, wept during a weekend visit to the largest Lithuanian-American community.

Flanked by members of his family, Rudzika said through an interpreter that he was "a man who brings a message to the American people — that my country is oppressed and enslaved."

Burley murder hearing delayed

BURLEY — Three persons charged with the Nov. 7 double shotgun murder of two Burley men have been granted a continuance for a preliminary hearing.

Terry and Gary Billingsley, Burley, and Delbert Crawford, Eden, who are charged with the murder of Paul Peterson and Greg Soloski, both Burley, appeared in U.S. District Magistrate Court this morning for preliminary hearing. A postponement until Nov. 25 was granted.

Ex-Rupert aide Carlson dies

TWIN FALLS — Robert Carlson, 69, Twin Falls, former Rupert business man and city and county official, died Sunday at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital after a short illness.

Mr. Carlson lived at Rupert for 30 years, where he operated an auto agency and a bowling alley. He served as a city councilman at Rupert and as a member of the Blinnoka County commission. Funeral services are pending.

Boise station studies Magic Valley TV outlet

BY CRICKET BIRD

Times-News Writer

TWIN FALLS — A Boise television station is considering construction of television broadcast facilities here.

Officials of KTVB, Inc., said today they were "looking into" the possibility of establishing a translator station in Twin Falls.

But director of operations T.W. Twidell emphasized that plans are "too preliminary to make any statements at this time."

No applications for the new facility have been filed yet with the Federal Communications Commission, he said.

An NBC affiliate, KTVB, would air its programs through the "unattended" translator station. Such a facility at Twin Falls would have no capability for local programming.

An FCC spokesman said today the translator would have to use an ultrahigh frequency (UHF) channel the two ordinary VHF channels — 11 and 13, — assigned to Twin Falls are already in use by KMYT and the College of Southern Idaho educational translator.

David Blanchette, vice president of Western Broadcasting Co., Missoula, Mont., owners of Twin Falls station KMYT said today there are "no present plans" to switch KMYT's primary network affiliation from ABC to NBC.

To be considered a full affiliate, a station must broadcast 100 per cent of the network's programs. Although KMYT is also affiliated with NBC and CBS, the station has been a full affiliate with ABC for about two years.

The ABC affiliate contract comes up for reconsideration in January, 1975, Western Broadcasting officials said.

If KMYT had its full affiliation with NBC, another NBC station could not have a competing station.

Officials of the Boise station said more information on the possibility of a translator station would be available in about 10 days.

Murder charged

GOODING — A complaint charging first degree murder in a Saturday morning shooting in Wendell was signed this morning against Kevin Allen Wendell.

Gooding County prosecuting Attorney Andrew James said the man was scheduled to appear in magistrate court today. The suspect was in custody of the Gooding County Sheriff and had been questioned since shortly after the shooting occurred.

Kenneth Dale VonWeller, 35, Wendell, was shot and killed about 1:15 a.m. Saturday shortly after he left a Wendell night club. Officials said he was the last customer to leave before closing and no disturbances or difficulties had occurred while he was in the club.

Officers said VonWeller was shot several times in an alley near the night club and died almost instantly.

US aides say pot test raises health questions

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government today raised new health questions about marijuana use, saying that test results were inconclusive but there is "cause for concern and caution."

The Health, Education and Welfare report said the scientific evidence is hardest on the effects of marijuana on the human body.

"A definitive evaluation of marijuana's harmfulness or safety for humans cannot be offered at this time on the basis of scientific evidence available," said Dr. Robert L. DuPont, director of the National Institute of Drug Abuse, which prepared the report.

"But there is cause for concern and caution based on evidence from animal studies and some preliminary human studies summarized in this report," DuPont said.

"For now it would seem the possible adverse effects should lead marijuana smokers or potential smokers to question whether it is worth the risk."

The report, completed early this year, was delayed by indecision over research which raised more questions about the potential health effects of marijuana smoking.

Whatever the ultimate evidence of more serious consequences of chronic cannabis use, there is "little question that acute marijuana intoxication interferes with immediate interpersonal functioning as well as with driving and other psychomotor skills," DuPont said in a foreword to report.

The report was released just three days after DuPont called for decriminalization of private use of marijuana.

The most recent studies included in the report raise questions about the effects of marijuana on male sex hormone levels, interference with the body's disease resistant response and effects on blood vessel constriction.

One series of animal studies indicates that one of the active ingredients of marijuana — delta-9-THC — and possibly other ingredients have a potentially harmful effect on cell metabolism which could disturb basic biological processes and interfere with the body's immune response, the report said.

However, it added that no human research has been reported which demonstrates that disease resistance is significantly impaired by marijuana use.

Girls sought

GOODING (UPI) — Gooding County Sheriff's officers searched the desert near the City of Rocks today for two Gooding residents who failed to return home Sunday from a visit to the monument.

The girls were identified as Cheryl Clifford and Thelma Wilkins, both aged 19.

They left Gooding for a trip to the City of Rocks about 15 miles west of town and did not return to their homes.

FBI checks TF native as possible 'Gate leak'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — W. Mark Felt, a Twin Falls native who rose to the No. 2 spot in the FBI, is being investigated by federal agents to find out if he leaked Watergate-related FBI files to a New York Times reporter, the Los Angeles Times reported Sunday.

Felt, a former associate director of the FBI, was not available this morning for comment on the story.

The Times, in a story from its Washington Bureau, said the investigation has begun underway for several months and could affect any future prosecution of L. Patrick Gray, the FBI's acting director after the death of J. Edgar Hoover.

The outcome of the probe could affect the Watergate special prosecutor's decision on whether to seek perjury charges against L. Patrick Gray III, former acting FBI Director, who resigned in disgrace when it was disclosed he had turned police evidence removed from the White House office of Watergate conspirator E. Howard Hunt Jr., the Times said.

Felt, 61, was the No. 2 man in the FBI before his retirement. He served 31 years and had been considered a leading candidate to succeed Hoover before former Kansas City Police Chief Clarence M. Kelley was named as director.

The paper said Kelley declined to discuss the matter saying "there's no possible way we can comment regarding any investigation we may or may not be involved in."

Felt, who has been doing criminal justice consulting and lecturing on college campuses, flatly denied he provided FBI documents to New York Times reporter John M. Crewdson. He called the investigation "ridiculous and astounding."

Memo hearing ordered

WASHINGTON (UPI) — U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica today ordered a full hearing to determine whether E. Howard Hunt's long-lost "bombshell" memo demanding money and pardons for the Watergate burglars can be submitted as evidence in the cover-up trial.

The hearing — sort of a trial within a trial — will begin Wednesday out of the presence of the jury, and is expected to last several days. It is part of a series of cases against five aides of former President Richard M. Nixon before the end of the week.

At issue is a memorandum written two years ago by Hunt, one of the original Watergate bugging conspirators, demanding that the Nixon administration live up to its prior "commitments" to provide money and pardons to the Watergate burglars.

The memo, which had been lost, suddenly was uncovered by the prosecution this week. Agents, catching the defense by surprise, expected to show the full story of how the memo was found before the jury is held about it.

World food conference delegates view success

ROME, U.P. — Delegates of the World Food Conference called the 12-day meeting a success, saying even though the gathering fell short of a 10 million ton grain target, it achieved its goal of averting mass starvation.

The 12-day conference, which ended Saturday after the 2,000 delegates set up permanent international machinery to deal with future food shortages.

The main organizer, president of the United States for leading the world in providing relief food and refused to pledge more.

The meeting, which opened Nov. 4, was a success, according to delegates, because it achieved a new phase in the history of the world's "international food conference."

Mexico, Mexico, played down U.S. refusal to accept extra million tons of grain aid. He said the United States was already giving millions of tons of food to hungry nations.

"Let's be fair about this," he said. "The United States is giving a tremendous amount of aid. It is the leading food aid contributor."

U.S. officials said President Ford declined to approve any increase in food aid because of the adverse effects on domestic prices.

"This conference was not called to get food to people tomorrow," Edwin M. Martin, deputy chief of the American delegation, said. "It was called, to plan for the next 10 years to keep grains at this level from recurring."

The conference in a food plan still to be ratified by the U.N. General Assembly.

An annual emergency food stockpile of 10 million tons is to be funded by contributing governments. The key issue of financing was left unsolved.

A permanent World Food Council to coordinate farming and nutrition programs.

Clark, Butz split over US grain contribution

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Richard C. Clark, D-Iowa, said today the entire U.S. delegation to the World Food Conference, including Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz, supported a request that the United States pledge an additional million tons of wheat to the world's hungry.

Butz alleged that the proposal, for the additional wheat, which was rejected by President Ford Friday, was a political ploy by the Democratic senators at the Rome food conference.

Clark, Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota and George S. McGovern of South Dakota, said they felt very badly that some of our own people held us up as not doing our share," Butz said. "I think we're doing a great job," he deluged Clark's decision as "proper."

Butz launched a strong defense of American food policy, saying the United States has given about $2.5 billion worth of free food during the past 20 years.

"That is a pretty good record," Butz said.

Butz, who was interviewed today on the CBS Morning News, said Sunday he believed the request by the senators to Ford was politically motivated. He made the charge at a news conference with reporters at Andrews Air Force Base, Md.

Clark, who was interviewed on the NBC Today Show, said the "goal we tried to achieve in Rome was not political at all."

He said that Butz "joined us in that request" to Ford. "I find it somewhat surprising that the secretary would now argue that this was a proposal put forward only by three Democratic senators," he said.

Clark said he proposed the additional wheat shipments after "I became clear that the other nations of the world were looking to us for some initiative, some leadership."

After some debate among the U.S. delegates, Clark said it was decided to send a telegram to Ford requesting authorization for the extra wheat.

The telegram was signed by all delegation members, including Butz, Clark said. "He had the support of the entire delegation," Republicans as well as Democrats," Clark said.

Clark criticized Butz for his position of using food as a "weapon" or a "tool in the kit of American diplomacy."

Robert Carlson

TWIN FALLS — Robert Carlson, 88, Twin Falls, died Sunday at Magie Valley Memorial Hospital after a short illness.

Born Aug. 18, 1885, in Smoland, Sweden, he was married to Amy Crona in Denver, Colo., on Dec. 15, 1911. She died in 1971. He was later married to Mildred Cook at Elko, Nev., on Sept. 6, 1973.

Mr. Carlson lived in Twin Falls for 23 years, coming here from California where he had lived for five years. Prior to that, he had lived at Rupert for 20 years, where he married the Dales and Plymouth automobile agencies. He also operated a bowling alley in Rupert and remodelled several buildings.

Mr. Carlson was a former member of the Rupert City Council and of the Mindoka Cemetery Association.

He was a member of the Twin Falls Elks Lodge and attended the First Baptist Church in Twin Falls.

Surviving are his wife, a daughter, Mrs. Alice Marie Harding, Twin Falls; a brother, John S. Carlson, Mound, Minn.; three grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Funeral services for Mr. Carlson are pending at the White Mortuary. Burial will be in Sunset Memorial Park.

Question ..

I am the beneficiary on an insurance policy I own upon my brother's life. I have not heard from him for several years. Is he considered legally dead when I cannot locate him within 7 years?

Answer ..

This is a legal question, and we suggest you discuss it with your attorney but it does have some interesting general aspects that may apply to others. The presumption that someone is deceased when he has not been seen within seven years has been written into law by several states. Not only is an insurance settlement involved in these situations, but also the transfer of property belonging to missing persons.

Fight fuel fire

Test climaxes training

TWIN FALLS — Training of Twin Falls City firemen in the use of the new foam truck at the Twin Falls City-County Airport was climaxed Thursday with a live fire test at the field.

Not only was the live fire test, further, the training of the men under actual conditions, but it also was a final test of the $94,000 machine before acceptance and final approval by the city.

Fire Chief Holloway said the machine tested out on speed, power, fire-fighting and performance with a margin to spare. He said the machine, for example, is required to accelerate from zero to 30 miles per hour in 30 seconds and it completed the speed test in 35 seconds.

French used a water-filled pit for the demonstration, which involved turning the truck on top of the water and then lighting. Sparks and flames were allowed to shoot into the air 50 feet or more before the crews and equipment moved in with the foam.

AIRCRAFT fires involving hot burning fuels require special handling and Twin Falls Fire Department members are now completing special training to meet these emergencies. Here two men wearing asbestos suits that enable them to move in close, use handlines from the new foam truck to put out a fuel fire. The live test completed training and also tested the new $100,000 foam truck in the foreground.

Two tests were made with hand lines by men wearing asbestos suits and looking like spacemen. The fires were out within a matter of seconds.

As a final test the fire was restarted and put out by the large foam nozzle assembly of the machine. The fire was out by the time the unit neared the fire.

Bald said in tests made Friday the equipment was foaming with the new aquarius film forming foam effectively at a distance of 190 feet.

The only problem to develop was a blown gasket which allowed the machine to leak a slight amount of foam during the final test, but officials said this is part of the reason for the tests and what was apparently a weak gasket can easily be replaced.

PATTI WHITEHEAD, Teachers Corps aide, instructs children in games designed to develop skills as well as entertain during the Filer family fun night.

Filer starts third year of community education

By MARJORIE LERMAN
Times-News writer

FILER — The Filer community is beginning its third year of family-oriented activities under the Filer Community Education Association program.

The program was initiated because the Teachers Corps in the school, assisted by a steering committee headed by Mrs. Roy Watson, its aims are to make full use of the community's schools for activities — both educational and entertaining — and to interest people in working together for the mutual benefit of all.

Programs geared to appeal to the majority of those attending are selected, and sometimes repeated by popular demand. They are presented in the Filer High School and Filer Elementary School, and on occasion, in the streets of town.

This year's activities got underway with "Family Fun Night," series being held each Tuesday, and including basketball, volleyball, boxing, checkering, instructions, and two sizes of jampolines, in the elementary school gymnasium.

Needless to say, instruction in home-education, knitting and crocheting, reading and games for children, help develop skills and attitudes, progress, cartoons and movies appeal to young and old, and senior citizens participate in games and contests.

Special features for this month include a talk on interior decorating, advice on preparing food, and sewing projects, and an upcoming talk by Mr. Albrecht of the Idaho Fish and Game Department.

New classes to begin at the first of the year include a number of new interests as well as the return of several old favorites. A class on typewriting will be directed by Randel Wilson, high school teacher, and one on furniture refinishing will be taught by Marie Skinner, high school teacher.

Mrs. John Nelson will repeat a class on sewing, and Gordon Bennett will direct a class on welding. Photography classes will be taught by William Rupperecht and Karale by Glenn Harman.

Mrs. Victoria Martin will teach knitting. Paraphernalia will be given away by Mrs. Wright, and by Roy Watson, and gardening by Marie Fisher and Irene Combs.

Expected to be a popular class is one in preparing of economy foods by Judy Backlund since everyone is looking for ways to pare down the food budget. An interesting new class will be business as instructed by Jerry Kuykendall.

Classes being held by popular demand will be on sewing, home-education, and men's basketball. Guitar lessons will be available and a class on snowmobile care is slated.

Many sitting and listening to music provided for parents with young children.

Gooding honors 3 4-H leaders

LEADERSHIP — Three 4-H leaders were honored for 20 years of service at the annual 4-H Grange benefit dinner.

About 200 persons attended the dinner in the Gooding Grange Hall, Ed Koester, county agent, said Saturday.

Mrs. Hugo Eichelberg and Harold Holson each received 20-year pins and certificates from Ben Glaumer, Gooding county commission chairman.

Five year pins were awarded to: Greg Hatten, Mrs. Bob Tupper, Kenneth Culler, Mrs. Bill Mink and R. B. Freeman.

Mrs. Dorothy Hammond, recently resigned home extension agent, was presented gifts from the Homeholders Club and 4-H Leaders Council.

Filer hires new drama instructor

FILER — Mrs. Paula Holfield will assume duties of drama instructor at Filer High School after the Christmas holidays.

She will replace Janet Dennis who is getting married and will move to Salt Lake City.

Supt. Ray Baker also, announces the price of hot lunch tickets for adults at the school will be raised from 60 to 70 cents, because of increasing price of all foodstuffs.

Baker said "Trustees are considering the advantages and disadvantages of early graduation for seniors. A student is required to have 30 credits in order to graduate and if he is able to obtain them in three years, the school cannot make him attend the full four years.

A Filer student desiring early graduation will have to complete "Howard" Minor, counselor, the school administration and school board and then the final decision is left to the State Department of Education, Baker said.

The superintendent also said trustees are considering special education for the coming year and Baker is to check into the availability of a teacher and aide for this program.

They also are considering a gifted and talented program which could allow students from the fifth through eighth grades who show exceptional ability to broaden their educational experiences and develop leadership.

Baker said the board is planning to hold a special meeting soon devoted to discussion of the future of athletic program in Filer.

Baker will attend the Northwest Association meeting in Seattle in December. Gordon Bennett, science instructor, and five students will attend the International Exposition in Portland.

The Filer High School band will march in the Fairland Parade in Boise Nov. 21.

Israeli shell Lebanese coast targets

By United Press International
Israeli gunboats bombarded Palestinian targets along the Lebanese coast today, but diplomatic intervention by the superpowers eased tensions on the Golan Heights.

Israel vowed to keep its mobilized troops on war alert until Syria agrees to let U.N. truce observers keep patrolling the "hotter zone" between the opposing armies in the Golan Heights.

The Israeli command said it had also fired a plan by Arab guerrillas to infiltrate Israeli territory with heavy explosives.

The command said one guerrilla was killed and another captured Sunday when an Israeli patrol intercepted the guerrillas on the beach near the Kish Hanks checkpoint on the Israeli-Lebanese frontier. It said there were no Israeli casualties in the encounter.

A guerrilla spokesman in Beirut said eight Israeli gunboats fired 100 rounds of 100-mm. shells for two hours early today against Al-Husheidi, one of the largest Palestinian refugee camps in Lebanon.

He said Arab guerrillas and Lebanese soldiers fired back, but gave no estimate of losses. The coastal camp, 47 miles south of Beirut, houses about 30,000 refugees.

A military spokesman in Tel Aviv said Israeli gunboats raided a Palestinian guerrilla sea base just south of the camp.

The spokesman said all vessels returned safely after what he called "good hits." Israel has attacked Palestinian targets in Lebanon on a daily basis for the past week.

The weekend tension along the Golan front followed reports of a partial Israeli mobilization and a Syrian military alert.

Syrian Foreign Minister Abdel Halim Khaddam promised Saturday to abide by the cease-fire, but threatened to retaliate "firmly and strongly" against any Israeli attack.

Syrian President Hafez Assad conferred over the weekend with Soviet Ambassador Yury Fedotkin and Egyptian President Anwar Sadat.

Nixon aides ordered IRS probe of 'radical' units

(C) New York Times Service
WASHINGTON—An investigation with the Internal Revenue Service, set up by the Nixon administration, included on a list of "ideological, militant, subversive, and radical organizations" the American Revolution, the United Front League and the National Council of Churches.

The documents, made public today by Ralph Nader's Tax Reform Research Group, consisting of 11 internal IRS memorandums, letters and orders, had been obtained from the IRS following the filing of a lawsuit by the Nader group under the Freedom of Information Act.

The documents showed that the first steps toward creation of the surveillance group were taken on July 2, 1969, one day after a White House aide, Tom Charles Huston, told a top Internal Revenue official that President Nixon wanted the agency "to move against leftist organizations."

Revealed officials have concluded that the group was created in August, 1969, in response to a request from the Senate special committee on investigations.

Randolph W. Thoreau, who was commissioner of internal revenue when the surveillance group was created, said in a telephone interview from Atlanta that he knows little of the details of the operations of the group, first known as the Activist Organization Committee and later as the Special Services Staff.

Thus, he said, he could not explain why organizations such as A.D.A., the Urban League and the Council of Churches were among the groups on which Internal Revenue had reporters ordered field offices to gather intelligence.

The Internal Revenue documents refer to the organizations to be watched in such terms as "subversive organizations of all kinds" and "militant and revolutionary" organizations. A phrase that recurs often describes them as "ideological, militant, subversive, radical and similar type organizations."

Pollution hearing set

(C) Chicago Sun-Times
WASHINGTON—A Senate Commerce subcommittee will hold hearings Tuesday on an amendment to a 1974 act that would make it easier to stop the pollution of water bodies by dangerous substances.

The measure, jointly sponsored by Sens. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., and Philip Hart, D-Mich., would shift the burden of proof from the complainant to the polluter, making the latter show that no hazard exists in the dumping.

Nelson will be leadoff witness at the hearing, which will be chaired by Hart. The 40-year-old liberals hope to use the public awareness sparked by a recent water-supply crisis in the Midwest to push the amendment, the House already has passed it twice.

Like all legislation pending on Capitol Hill, the Nelson-Hart amendment will be sent to the Senate after it is passed by the House.

Originally introduced August 1973, the amendment was sparked by a federal circuit court's reversal of a lower court ruling in the celebrated "Reserve Mining" case.

In this case, District Court Judge Miles Lord in Minnesota ordered the Reserve Mining Corp. to stop dumping taconite tailings, spent ore from a low-grade source of iron, into Lake Superior after the state of Wisconsin had charged that the tailings contained asbestos, a dangerous, mired known to cause cancer.

The Nelson-Hart amendment would change the legal status of plaintiffs and defendants in pollution cases not only with respect to cancer-causing substances, but to any substance alleged to be dangerous to the public health.

In introducing the amendment last August, Nelson maintained the burden of proof should be on the defendant in Vietnam and which he identified as "the most lethal synthetic agent in the world."

Nelson expressed concern that "if someone never learned that the law is on their side to punish the use of 2,4,5-T, the Eighth Circuit's opinion in the Reserve Mining case might be used as a precedent to deny relief. This would, in my judgment, defeat law and not public policy as well."

The Nelson-Hart proposal provides that when a "rebuttable presumption" is raised about the hazard presented by a substance being discharged to the environment, the person engaging in such course of conduct of discharging, emitting or manufacturing shall have the burden of proving—

(A) that in fact no threat to public health exists, or that the risk of any such threat is negligible; or

(B) that the physical and economic considerations in fact outweigh any possible threat to public health.

Caramanlis wins Greek majority

(C) Chicago Daily News
ATHENS—After a night of horn-blowing, shouting and ritual smog on the streets, a 67-year-old Greek leader, Constantine Caramanlis, won solid majority in the first round of a government of new Prime Minister Constantine Caramanlis.

Not only did the 67-year-old Caramanlis, New Democracy Party, win an absolute majority of 54.6 per cent of the vote, but he got a "loyal opposition" in the 18-seat parliament which will be largely sympathetic to his plans.

Caramanlis' followers had feared an opposition led by leftist, Socialist Andreas Papandreu's centrally anti-American Pan-Hellenic Socialist Movement. However, Papandreu's party received only 13 per cent of the vote.

Instead, the opposition was led by the former foreign minister, George Papademos, whose Center Union Party received 20 per cent. Papademos is just a little to the left of Caramanlis and his New Democracy, and can be expected to operate with the two communist parties, the Internal Party (a regionalist Marxist party) and the External Party (a Communist party linked directly to Moscow) who won 9.9 per cent.

This was particularly important, since this was the first election the formerly outlawed Communists were allowed to participate in since World War

Interesting too was that the Moscow line party did better than the nationalist Communists.

Early Monday morning, the seats allotted in parliament were: New Democracy, 214; Center Union, 64; Pan-Hellenic Socialist Movement, 12; and Communists, 10.

The remaining nine per cent of the vote went to the other 4 tiny parties.

In his victory message, Caramanlis praised the people for their exemplary behavior in this, their first election after 10 years of military dictatorship.

"They took part in the electoral procedure with enthusiasm, but without the unhealthy fanaticism of the past," he said pointedly.

These elections will now be followed by a referendum Dec. 4 on the return of exiled King Constantine.

It is highly unlikely that the monarchy will be voted back if it is not the people's wish to have a presidential system, which would mean another readjustment in the country's way of life, which has been changed totally since the downfall of the military dictatorship last July.

Because Caramanlis' entire campaign has been so "above the fight" and because he has talked about the country's problems only in general terms, no one is sure what he will do now.

Hammond winner in Alaska

(C) Associated Press
JUNEAU, Alaska—UPI—Four-month-old details of the Alaska governor's race show Republican challenger Jay Hammond defeated Democratic Gov. William A. Egan by 40 votes in the Nov. 3 general election.

After a laborious hand count of 60,000 computer ballots, Dorothy McKenzie, state elections director, released the unofficial totals over the weekend.

They showed 46,322 for Hammond, 4,602 for Egan, 1,000 for the three-term governor.

The State Elections Canvassers' office is now checking the number of votes cast in the precincts. If the votes cast exceed the number of registered voters, the precinct will be recounted.

Mrs. McKenzie said the canvass could narrow the margin, but not appreciably. But Alaska law provides for a free recount if the vote margin is one half of 1 per cent or less in the election that would be for votes.

A Hammond victory would bring new Governor, son of the famous news-caster, into the lieutenant governor's office, replacing Democrat H. V. "Red" Boucher.

The Massachusetts Institute of Technology, one of the world's most famous engineering schools, was founded in 1865 as a small school for "Practical Science."

Abuses by FBI eyed by Saxbe

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Attorney General William French Saxbe says the government must wait the FBI to make sure it never resumes secret activities directed against domestic groups like those it conducted in the 1950's.

Saxbe, who released a Justice Department report today detailing FBI abuses ordered by the late J. Edgar Hoover, said there is actually no way to be sure the FBI won't resort to such tactics again. But he said such practices would not be tolerated during his tenure.

"It won't happen again while I'm here," Saxbe said during a televised interview Sunday (ABC's "Meet the Press").

Saxbe was referring to activities outlined in the report that show Hoover ordered a 15-year campaign of harassment against domestic radicals.

The report describes abuses such as planted news stories and "anonymous" letters to employers and credit agencies of alleged members of target groups — which both Justice

Department and FBI officials termed "practices which can only be considered abhorrent in a free society."

Saxbe said he thought a repetition of government ordered snooping and disruption could easily happen again. "To say these things could never happen again just isn't so. You could have Watergate happen again. You could have all these things happen again if the people, the Congress and everybody concerned aren't interested," he said.

"I certainly think the price you have to pay for this is eternal vigilance."

The existence of the counter intelligence program, evidence of contempt, has been publicly known since radicals found evidence of it during a burglary of an FBI office in Media, Pa., in March, 1971, but details have been kept secret.

The program was directed against radical groups, blacks, extremists, the Ku Klux Klan, the U.S. Communist party and a succession of new left groups.

3-doctor team to check Nixon

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (UPI) — Richard Nixon is ready to be examined by three court-appointed physicians to determine whether he is physically able to testify in the Watergate cover-up trial, a spokesman says.

A Nixon spokesman said this weekend the former president has no objection to undergoing an examination by a team of doctors appointed by U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica.

"There's never been any question about that," the spokesman said. "Of course, they (the doctors) are welcome to examine him."

Nixon's attorney, Herbert J. Miller, told Sirica Friday he would fly to Nixon's oceanside villa during the weekend to confer with his client about the exam, and would try to have a response by Tuesday.

The spokesman said Miller talked with Nixon on Wednesday. "Watergate" defendants in Washington contend Nixon's testimony is indispensable to their cases. The three doctor team was appointed last week at the request of attorneys for former presidential aide John D. Ehrlichman.

Dr. Charles A. Hinton, one of the court-appointed doctors, told Sirica he would not proceed with the examination until there is assurance that Nixon consented.

Doctors who treated the former president during his 21-day stay at Long Beach Memorial hospital said last week that the exam could prove stressful and raise Nixon's blood pressure.

Nixon entered the hospital Oct. 23 for treatment of a painful phlebitis condition. He underwent surgery several days later and "lapsed" into shock, which placed him on the critical list for a week.

Eva's body returned

BUENOS AIRES (UPI) — Thousands of Argentines' "shirtless ones" turned out to welcome her home, tossing flowers at the flag-draped coffin and shouting the old cry, "Eva, Eva!"

The body of Eva Peron, shipped secretly overseas more than 19 years ago by Argentina's generals, returned home Sunday to a land deeply divided by political strife.

The body of the fiery idol of Argentina's masses joined her late husband, Juan Domingo Peron, in a shrine for outstanding historical figures.

Peron, the late leader's 47-year-old widow and political heir, choked back tears as she presided at a brief, solemn airport ceremony welcoming Eva's body from Spain.

A leftist guerrilla group's Monday raid marked the arrival by returning the stolen body of former President Pedro Aramburu.

The guerrillas stole Aramburu's body from a crypt in Buenos Aires last month in a move to keep authorities from burying "the national shrine with the remains of Peron."

'Lame duck' Congress resumes session

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The winners and the losers return to Congress today for a "lame duck" session, expected to complete only a bare minimum of its unfinished business.

By the calendar, the 3rd Congress has seven weeks until it formally expires at noon Jan. 3, but some of the time will be taken up in holidays.

Many Democrats are inclined to put off lower controversial issues until their ranks are bolstered by newly elected Democrats in the next Congress.

The House now has 233

Democrats to 117 Republicans, the Senate 50 Democrats and 47 Republicans. As a result of the November election, the Democrats in January will be 251 to the House and 49 to the Senate.

Nearly a 100 of the members of Congress returned today. 92 House members and 47 Senate members are expected to return by the end of the week.

That is not a record turnover but one of the largest in recent years. Democratic leaders have announced in push for total confirmation of Nelson A. Rockefeller as vice president before the session ends.

Senate Rules Committee Chairman Howard W. Cannon, D-Nev., predicted Sunday the Senate will approve the nomination by that deadline.

He is less sure of the House, which does not begin hearings on Rockefeller until Thursday. The minimum six congressional days for this session of Congress, and it may fall short of that. Would the passage of appropriations bills for departments such as Labor, Health, Education and Welfare, and Agriculture.

The foreign aid appropriation may fall and have to be financed by a continuing resolution until the next Congress.

Action is likely on international trade reform and mass transit. It appears unlikely this session national health insurance, tax reform and the bulk of President Ford's economic program.

Seven Democratic senators issued a statement Sunday calling for legislation to provide tax relief for individuals and also increase the tax credit for new business investment.

They were Walter F. Mondale, D-Minn.; Birch Bayh, D-Ind.; John Cranston, D-Calif.; Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn.; Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass.; Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine; and Frank Lautenberg, D-N.J.

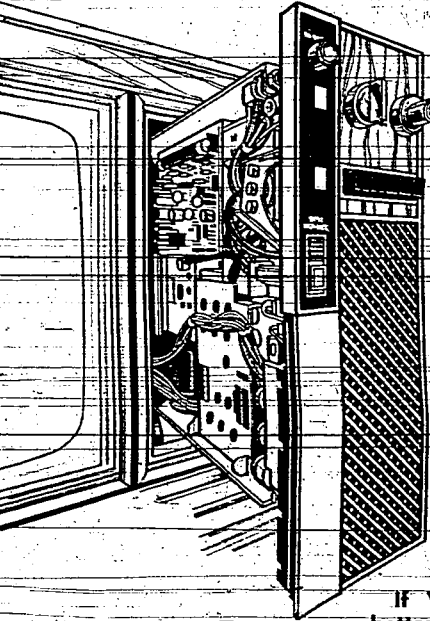

Changes were also made in the passage of President Ford's proposed 5 percent income tax surcharge, except perhaps for families far above the $50,000 family level recommended by Ford.

Super Insta-Matic Color Tuning with Electronic Light Sensor

Constantly adjusts and corrects the color picture electronically far faster than you can hope to do yourself. Just push one button. The electronic light sensor works like a light meter. When the room light becomes brighter, and tends to wash out the picture, the sensor quickly adjusts the circuitry to produce a vivid picture. When the room light becomes darker, the sensor quickly balances the picture for comfortable viewing.

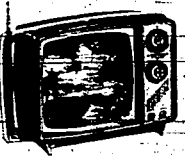

A special development makes it possible Color Demodulator Integrated Circuit (patent applied for)

The difference is Quasar engineers developed a special, single integrated circuit, instead of utilizing numerous individual electronic components. This tiny circuit "chip" measuring about 1/16" square, is packed with the equivalent of many transistors, diodes, and resistors. The circuit processes the color signal. Broadbands correct color brightness. Balances color, contrast and brightness... in addition to handling many other functions.

Demos eye inflation

HILLTON HEAD, S.C. (UPI) — Democratic governors, meeting in the aftermath of the Democratic triumph in the general elections, called upon Congress Sunday to begin tackling the problem of inflation immediately.

Arriving on the eve of the Democratic Governors Conference, Gov. Robert Hugh Carey of New York told reporters: "The people want politics put aside and the country put back to work."

Gov. Wendell Anderson of Minnesota, chairman of the newly expanded 36-member conference and the winner of second term for himself Nov. 5, said, "The American people made it very clear that the ball is in the Democratic court."

"I feel very strongly that in the next six weeks, the Democratic leadership should pass specific bills that deal with inflation and other problems in this country," Anderson said at a news conference Sunday.

Their words signalled an air of deep concern that seemed out of place in the affluent atmosphere of the conference site — a sandy playground of beaches, golf courses and tennis courts. Both Anderson and Carey, early arrivals, expressed a sense of urgency that Congress also controlled by Democrats — had to move quickly to deal with the nation's problems of inflation and unemployment.

US consuming less dairy foods

WASHINGTON (UPI) — For a combination of reasons ranging from weight-watching to price, the average American these days has cut consumption of dairy foods by more than a fourth from the levels of a generation ago, government records indicate.

There are some signs, however, that the long decline is leveling off.

Records assembled by Agriculture Department economists show Americans this year will consume an equivalent of 51 pounds of milk in forms ranging from fresh whole milk to cheese, butter and other dairy foods. This is more than 20 per cent below the 24 pounds per capita consumption figure from 1954.

A department dairy expert said the 1974 estimate, down 15 pounds or 27 per cent from 1954, is the smallest in government records which go back half a century to 1924.

A detailed study of the records also indicates, however, that part of the long decline has been due to a factor which will have comparatively little impact in the future — the sharp drop in the use of milk in the amount of milk consumed on the farm. With farm use of milk down to an almost irreducible minimum in recent years, per capita consumption of milk in all forms of the farm has been holding at a comparatively steady level.

In 1970, for example, non-farm commercial sales of milk in all forms amounted to 512 pounds for every man, woman and child in the country. The figure rose to 515 pounds in 1972 before falling back to an estimated 510 pounds as total national milk production declined again this year to the lowest level since 1948.

The overall decline in all milk products combined also masks some sharply contrasting trends in American eating habits. Per capita consumption of cheese, for example, has been rising while butter consumption has been declining.

In fluid milk products, records show a long-term downward trend in the average consumer's purchases. This has been slowed by steady gains in sales of low fat milk, including skim milk. In the last decade alone, for example, per capita consumption of fluid whole milk has dropped 21 per cent from 123 quarts a year to 95.5 quarts. But consumption of low-fat milk products has jumped from 23.4 quarts per capita a year in 1963 to 35.4 quarts this year.

Spud price hike predicted

AMERICAN FALLS (UPI) — The vice president for bargaining of the Potato Growers of Idaho has predicted a slight increase in the price of potatoes to farmers in the next couple of months.

Tom McClain told the Fourth District membership meeting of the Potato Growers of Idaho that frost problems experienced in the eastern part of the nation and a 1.5 to 2 per cent increase in production in potatoes nationwide should push up the price of potatoes.

He said the increase should come in 30 to 45 days.

At present, potatoes are going for $2.25 a hundredweight. He expects the price to go to $4.00 to $4.50 a hundredweight.

McClain said the crop in Idaho this year is the best ever produced. He also noted that production in Idaho is only up about one per cent but said the state growers have an excellent opportunity to market more fresh potatoes this year than last.

Survey to aid farm estimates

HOUSE — Estimates of cattle and sheep numbers, expected calf crop, and winter wheat plantings will hinge on a major nationwide survey set for late fall by the Statistical Reporting Service.

Richard Max, statistician in charge of the Idaho Crop and Livestock Reporting Service, explained that published estimates from this annual survey are always significant to those making decisions in agriculture. However, the information will carry added importance this year because of concerns surrounding feed grain supplies and prices and their impact on livestock and poultry production.

Max said the wheat acreage estimate also will draw heavy attention because farmers were again free to plant and not influenced by Government restrictions.

The survey swings into the field in late November and early December when thousands of farmers and ranchers representing a cross section of the nation's producers will be contacted by reporting service representatives. These workers from the Boise office will ask about livestock currently on farms, expected calf crops, and acreages seeded to winter wheat and rice. All responses are confidential and only state and national estimates will be issued.

Survey results will be available through the Idaho Crop and Livestock Reporting Service in December for wheat, hogs, and poultry; a mid-January sheep publication; and a February cattle release.

Fertilizer bill due tough opposition

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Richard Clark, D-Iowa, will face strong industry opposition today when he introduces a bill designed to help curb fertilizer use for lawns and other "ornamental" purposes so farmers have and abroad can expand food production.

A spokesman for the fertilizer institute, an industry trade association, said in an interview, the group would oppose Clark's bill on grounds it would restrict or inhibit the increase of food supplies.

Clark announced the plan as a step to fight world hunger while attending the current world food conference in Rome, Italy, and he would introduce it today and that companion bills probably would be introduced in the House when Congress returns from its election recess.

Clark's bill would require the federal government to virtually eliminate its use of fertilizer in 1975 for lawns, parks, golf courses and other "ornamental" purposes. An exception would be made only where the plant food was needed for conservation or erosion prevention purposes.

The action would have comparatively little impact on supplies because the federal government buys only about one-half of one per cent of total U.S. fertilizer supplies, Clark's aide conceded. But he said broader benefits might come from a second portion of the bill.

The second, step-down bill, President Ford to issue a proclamation calling on all states, local governments, businesses and private citizens to follow on a voluntary basis — the lead set by the federal government. All non-federal users would be urged to make "a substantial reduction" in use of fertilizer for anything except food production.

Just how much fertilizer could be saved for farming use by bypassing lawn, golf courses and similar sites for a year is sharply disputed.

A Clark spokesman said "decorative" uses of fertilizer may account for as much as 10 to 15 per cent of the 47 million tons of fertilizer used annually in the U.S. An official of the Fertilizer Institute, however, said a recent survey indicated that non-food uses accounted for only about 10 per cent of the total, including home food gardens, essential roadside stabilization and other non-farm conservation projects.

FB leader warns cost increase

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. — The cost of living could climb to new highs under federal legislation scheduled to be introduced in the 1975 session of Congress, a national farm leader warned here today.

The warning came from William J. Kuhntz, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, in an address to the 24th annual meeting of the National Association of Independent Insurers.

"Consumers should be alert to legislation which would establish a new super government bureaucracy to be imposed on top of all existing federal agencies, increasing in all regulatory activities of each agency, adding millions with new red tape and adding to the cost of their operations," Kuhntz said.

"Every new government agency swells the already bloated federal payroll, puts a new burden on the taxpayer and adds to the cost of doing business. These increased business costs are passed on to the consumer in higher prices."

Kuhntz said that the legislation set for introduction in the 1975 Congress calls for the establishment of a Consumer Protection Agency. Such a bill was killed September 19 in the Senate with author of the original Consumer Protection Agency bill.

"Some might think that the Farm Bureau is not interested in consumer legislation because farmers are not thought of as consumers. This is a common misconception. Modern farm families are not only consumers of food, housing, clothing and other goods and services necessary for family living; they are also major consumers of manufactured products used in farm production. Farmers buy one-fourth of all the trucks produced in America; 10 per cent of the U.S. petroleum output, and 5 per cent of the nation's steel products."

"Farm Bureau believes that government standards of quality, safety, health, and labeling have in important role in protecting consumers and we already have a wide range of more than 43 federal regulatory agencies operating in this and other areas of public concern."

"If these agencies are not doing a job for consumers, as some proponents of the Consumer Protection Agency legislation contend, it is hardly likely that creation of another 'super agency' will be of much practical value except to provide more government jobs and more income for lawyers."

The U.S. Department of Agriculture Soil Conservation Service has helped landowners build ponds, plant windbreaks, improve pasture and hayland management, and manage wildlife habitats for almost four decades.

Beefman slams 'meatless days'

DENVER — Food experts are suggesting that it is wasteful and immoral to eat meatless days, the president of the American National Cattlemen's Association said today.

Responding to the advocates of "meatless days" and other plans aimed at reducing beef consumption, Gordon Van Vleck said that the public is being misled by statements that a reduction in U.S. beef production can lead to large savings of "grain" for consumption by livestock and starving persons overseas.

Van Vleck noted that beef cattle use much less grain than is frequently implied. Also, he emphasized, ruminant (four-legged) animals like cattle do not eat grain. Even if they did, he said, the only way to produce food from the millions of acres of grazing land in the U.S.

More than 50 per cent of all the land in the United States cannot be used for crop production," Van Vleck explained. "It not already occupied by people or forests, most of it is too rough, too dry or too infertile to grow grain or other crops. However, about half of the nation's crop land does grow grain and forage which can be converted to meat and milk by cattle and sheep. Without ruminant animals, we would have no way to convert these renewable resources into human food."

"If cattle ate nothing but grain, statements is the effect that it takes as much as 20 pounds of grain to produce a pound of beef would make little sense. However, the fact is that more than five-fourths of all of the feed used in beef production comes from grass, forage and by-products — the fibrous materials which cannot be consumed by man."

"It takes less than six pounds of grain to produce a pound of beef (processed, cut and trimmed) for the retail meat counter. Furthermore, about 90 per cent of our beef is currently coming from non-grain fed cattle."

"We also should note, in the energy-short world that it takes one-half calorie of fossil fuel — an exhaustible resource — to produce a calorie of food energy. Cattle, of course, don't require fuel to graze the land and recover the energy which is stored in grass."

Van Vleck also emphasized that the grain used in livestock production is not food grain like wheat or rice but rather feed grain — like field corn, grain sorghum and barley, which are in little or no demand for human use. Even the feed grains shipped overseas go almost entirely for livestock or poultry production. And in the U.S., hogs and poultry consume much more corn than beef cattle.

"It is clear," the ANCA official added, "that simply cutting out beef on one or two days a week will not automatically make large amounts of grain available for human consumption."

"Rather than talking about eliminating beef, we should be seeking to take still more advantage of the unique ability of the ruminant animal to digest otherwise wasted plant materials."

Calf shooting 'symbolic,' NFO head says

By DAVID BOCKMAN
Times-News Writer

BURLEY — The consuming public ought to be thankful for the recent shooting of calves by NFO members, according to David Lee Staley, national president of the National Farmers' Organization.

Staley made the remark in a speech to about 200 NFO members attending the organization's Idaho State Convention in Burley Saturday night.

Staley said the calf shooting was a symbolic act, one the farmers did reluctantly, but one that "speaking experience" to the consuming public, "lots of things happened."

According to Staley, within a few days of the calf killing, President Ford said that farmers should be getting the cost of production plus a fair profit. Without that kind of income, farmers can't stay in business, he said.

If farmers go out of business, Americans will be eating "cornflakes and water," he claimed.

Staley expressed "astonishment" that more farmers and ranchers haven't joined the NFO's current goal of blocking together 30 per cent of the nation's food production, and then setting their own prices.

At a meeting held the previous week in Burley, NFO members were told the goal of the organization is to place 30 per cent of the nation's farm production into the NFO's nationwide collection dispatch and delivery system. Then the farmers don't get the price they demand, there will be an "automatic holding action."

Saturday night, Staley compared the threatened NFO holding action to strategies used by other interest groups, such as "Chrysler motors not producing cars."

Staley also said seven major U.S. oil companies have organized themselves into the American-Arabian Oil Co. "Not just the Arab countries," but those seven American oil companies determine where oil will be marketed and how much it will cost, he stated.

Farmers and ranchers should also organize themselves so they have the ability to compete with other organized sectors of the economy, Staley said. "Unorganized farmers are in jeopardy," he added.

According to Staley, there are only four or five "layers" for every farm commodity. For instance, he said, 60 to 65 per cent of the food in the U.S. is raised by five or six ranchers. Staley linked the collusion between the wholesale buyers of farm production and said individual farmers can't compete with that kind of economic strength.

Staley said the commodity buyers continually try to drive the price of farm products down. When prices in one part of the country drop, prices in the rest of the country follow. NFO is attempting to get farmers to "block" their production and market it where the prices are highest. Otherwise farmers selling where prices are lowest, drop the price down nationwide, he stated.

Staley says the NFO is now urging members to end the killing of calves. The organization is asking for "a moratorium" on the killing of calves, he said, because "so many humanitarians have objected to the action."

Instead, according to Staley, the NFO is calling on Congress to buy excess meat and distribute it to the starving people of the world. Staley said the humanitarians objecting to the killing of calves will then get a chance to demonstrate their concern through their tax dollars.

Staley said the NFO fully expects Congress to authorize and appropriate money to buy surplus meat.

"I say the farmer and rancher will adequately produce the food to feed this country, and much of the rest of the world," Staley said, "if they get cost of production plus a fair profit."

But without adequate income, farmers can't produce the food to feed the hungry world, Staley said.

Shoshone police chief urges caution

SHOSHONE — Shoshone Police Chief John Shaffer has asked citizens to stop leaving firearms in unattended vehicles.

Shaffer said in the past few weeks some Lincoln County residents have reported the theft of such items and the increased number of like incidents in neighboring towns causes need for caution.

He urged people to lock their vehicles when they are away from them, and suggested guns be removed from window racks.

TF man injured

TWIN FALLS — Charles Boyer, 31, 21, Twin Falls, suffered minor injuries Sunday afternoon when his motorcycle collided with an automobile at the intersection of 4th Avenue East and 5th Street East.

City police said the accident occurred at 12:45 p.m. when Boyer was traveling south on 5th Street and a vehicle traveling east on 4th Avenue collided in the center of the intersection. Driver of the vehicle, Everett W. Danner, 64, Twin Falls, was not injured.

Accident claims Eagle child

EAGLE, Idaho (UPI) — Jennifer L. Baird, 8, Eagle, died in a Boise hospital Sunday from injuries received when she was killed in the head-on crash Friday.

The child was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley M. Baird.

AG's opinion concerns mayor

BOISE (UPI) — Mayor Dick Eardley is concerned about an attorney general's opinion that state educational institutions are exempt from city and county building and zoning ordinances.

Eardley said Sunday he was concerned about what Boise State University might decide to build, and where they might decide to build it.

"I'm not saying that they would necessarily do it," Eardley said, "but if they don't have to pay attention to city and county zoning codes they could build a smokesack in a residential area or a building without our greenbelt set back areas."

"It's got far reaching implications that bother me," he said.

BSU President Dr. John B. Barnes asked for the ruling Oct. 21.

Landmark makes way for progress

BOISE (UPI) — The landmark 14-foot power plant chimney behind the State Capitol has been torn down to make way for Capitol Mall expansion.

The stubborn chimney finally began to crumble on the 9th swing of a 3,300 pound wrecking ball Saturday.

A new five-story state office building is expected to stand in the place of the old heating plant by 1976, Max Boesiger, director of the department of public works, said.

Rancher survey set

BOISE (UPI) — The U.S. Agricultural Department will conduct a major nationwide survey of ranchers to estimate cattle and sheep numbers, expected calf crop, and winter wheat plantings.

Richard Marx, statistician in charge of the Idaho Crop and Livestock Reporting Service, said the information will carry added importance this year because of concerns surrounding feed grain supply and prices and their impact on livestock and poultry production.

He said the wheat acreage estimate also will draw heavy attention because farmers were again late to plant and not influenced by government restrictions.

Police continue search

CALDWELL (UPI) — Police continued their search today for two gunmen who robbed a market in Caldwell Saturday night and locked four persons in a produce cooler for nine hours.

The robbers jumped assistant manager Sever Fox outside the store shortly after 10 p.m. and forced him to open the safe. They escaped with more than $100 after locking Fox, his wife, Judy, and store employees Steve Smith, Sunny Slope, and Mark Winterfield, Caldwell, in the cooler.

Smith's father, Mark, left them out when he went to the market Sunday morning.

Campus group urges support

MOSCOW, Idaho (UPI) — Student religious groups at the University of Idaho called for support of participation in the national "fast for world harvest" on Thursday.

Campus groups urging support include the Campus Christian Center, the Latter-day Saints Institute, and St. Augustine's Center, as well as non-Christian denominations, said Dr. Stan Thomas, affiliate professor of religious studies.

He explained that well-fed Americans are being asked to fast for 24 hours and share the money saved by going hungry for a day with the small farmers of Asia, Africa and Latin America.

Son dead, father injured

NAMPA (UPI) — Randall Burk, 20, Nampa, is dead and his father Clarence Burk, 47, is critically injured following a car-trailer accident on Interstate 84 three miles east of here.

Two other persons received less serious injuries in the early Saturday morning accident.

Treated and released were Elizabeth Sutherland, 19, young Burk's fiancée, and Eldon Garland, 32, Caldwell.

State Trooper Gary Maxwell said the elder Burk was driving home, towing on a trailer a car disabled in an accident his son and Sutherland were involved in at Boise Friday.

Garland's car struck the trailer from behind, locking onto the rear of it. The trailer and car skidded on the highway while the Burk vehicle skidded off into a ditch.

Suspect tries to slash wrists

BOISE (UPI) — A man charged with first-degree murder of two men near Cascade tried to slash his wrists over the weekend, Ada County Sheriff's deputies reported.

Officers said Thomas Creech, 24, who is being held in jail at Boise, tried to cut himself with a piece of broken mirror, but only managed to scratch himself.

Angry consumers stage march

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — A group of 50 angry Utah consumers staged a weekend march through downtown Salt Lake City in protest of skyrocketing sugar prices.

The marchers met in front of the Federal Building at noon Saturday for a series of speeches denouncing the rising food costs, then walked to the Beneficial Life Building offices of U and I Sugar Co.

Rosalie Whiting, a spokeswoman for the group which also organized a meat boycott 10 months ago, said the boycott will continue until the price of sugar comes down.

"Food is becoming a luxury for ordinary people," she said, urging consumers to boycott other commodities whose prices have been increasing.

Inflation and the economy are a national disaster, she said, adding that shortages are common and food companies are trying to "show some care" on housewives.

She said if people don't demand sugar, the prices will have to be rolled back.

She said 30 other cities are participating in the boycott.

NFO conclave

OREN Lee Staley, national president of the NFO, right, spoke to about 200 NFO members attending the organization's Idaho State Convention in Burley Saturday night. The crowd, at top, listens to Staley's remarks as he talks about the recent shooting of calves by NFO members. Staley expressed "astonishment" that more farmers and ranchers haven't joined the NFO's current goal of blocking together 30 per cent of the nation's food production, and then setting their own prices.

Bus strike threatened

Federal mediator Guy Parent said continuing negotiations began Saturday, and after more than 24 hours of talks, "significant progress" was being made. Parent did not detail what areas were still under contention.

Greyhound employees have voted 1,606 to 816 in favor of a strike unless a settlement is met.

Parent said the negotiations were "more complicated than ever because for the first time the parties are working out a nationwide agreement."

"We are hopeful that a settlement can be worked out and an agreement signed that will protect the best interests of all concerned," he added.

Donald Rhodes, secretary of the union's joint bargaining committee, said earlier that "no specific progress" had developed halfway through the weekend bargaining session.

He said, however, that both sides had presented "slight revisions of offers made before the talks broke off Oct. 24. The weekend talks were the first since that previous contract with Greyhound had been negotiated on a division basis, but all the divisions were consolidated June 1 into the Amalgamated Council of Greyhound Divisions." The Council now represents 30 unions.

AIC eyes new form of taxes

By DAVID BOCKMAN
Times-News Writer

BURLEY — The Association of Idaho Cities (AIC) proposes legislation that will give Idaho cities authority to levy new forms of taxes.

Under existing law, property taxes are the only source of direct taxing revenue available to Idaho cities and other local governmental units.

According to Floyd Decker, Boise, executive director of the association, the legislative proposal known as "The Idaho Local Fiscal Control Act of 1973" is part of a legislative package proposed by AIC.

A draft copy of the bill states the purpose is to "provide alternatives to continued property tax increases" and "provide elected city officials with authority to subject to the approval of city electors, to determine the most appropriate kinds and mix of local taxes to finance local needs."

Decker said the local option tax bill "won't be an easy bill to pass," but he expects it to get through the next state legislative session.

While many cities are limited to property taxes to raise revenues, 38 other states allow local units of government local tax options, Decker said.

Given a choice between taxes, "people generally prefer a sales tax before property taxes," Decker claims. The proposed bill allows for "local control, local determination and property tax relief," he said.

However, there is some question about the constitutionality of the local tax option bill. Max Vost of the Association of Idaho Taxpayers says the state supreme court has ruled the state constitution has no written allowance for property taxation.

An effort to amend the constitution to allow other local tax options failed during the last legislature, Vost said.

On the other hand, Decker predicts that this bill is passed by the state legislature. It is being found "unconstitutional" The constitution simply states that municipalities may levy taxes," he said.

According to Decker, the Idaho Supreme Court made a ruling in 1968 holding that only property taxes could be levied by local government units. However, he said, more recently the Utah Supreme Court ruled that local tax options are constitutional in that state.

Idaho's constitution is nearly identical to Utah's when it comes to local taxes, so, according to Decker, with that precedent in hand, there should be no trouble proving the constitutionality of an Idaho local tax control act.

If approved by the legislature, the bill will allow city voters to approve or disapprove from one to five non-property taxes. Voters would also be allowed to specify the purpose for which the tax is levied and may earmark expenditures for specified special purposes and may specify the duration of the tax levied.

The five taxes authorized under the proposal are a city sales tax, a use tax, a payroll tax, a liquor tax, the drink tax and a hotel-motel occupancy tax.

The sales tax provision would allow for a "piggy back" to the state sales tax. If approved by the voters of a given city every retail sale in that city would be subjected to a sales tax. The local sales tax would be in addition to the state sales tax already in effect.

Before levying the sales tax, the city would be required to contract with the State Tax Commissioner to administer the city sales tax.

In other words, the city tax would be collected and processed along with the state sales tax with the city revenues being returned to the participating city quarterly.

The local option tax provides for a tax "upon the storage, use or other consumption in the city" of tangible personal property purchased from any retailer.

According to a Burley attorney, a tax usually applies to sales transactions outside of the sales tax jurisdiction.

For instance, he said, if an automobile is purchased outside of a sales-tax locality, but if for use in a jurisdiction having a sales tax, the buyer still pays the local sales tax. The purpose is to equalize the sales tax burden, he said.

Article III of the proposed act states a city government may enact an ordinance levying a tax on payroll wages.

The wages tax would apply to all workers employed in the municipality approving such a levy. However, those working for a "non-profit" corporation or association would not be subject to the wage tax.

According to Decker city residents working outside city limits would not be covered by the act. On the other hand, non-city residents working within the city with such a tax would be liable to pay the wage tax.

The fourth tax authorized by the proposal applies to the retail sales on "alcoholic liquors, wine and beer sold by the drink consumption on the premises."

The fifth and final provision allows city voters to approve a hotel-motel occupancy tax.

Girls' group home opens in Boise

RIPPERT — (Citing the need for service to all of the youth of Idaho, not just to boys, the Idaho Youth Ranch board of directors has announced opening of a girls' group home in Boise.

Neil Howard, executive director of the Idaho Youth Ranch, said that prior to coming to Idaho he had been negotiating with Department of Health and Welfare officials to begin Idaho programs for another organization. His decision to move to Idaho prompted him to recommend the girls' group home program for Idaho Youth Ranch.

The home, which currently can house 12 girls, will enable Idaho to keep the girls in the state instead of having them sent as far away as Phoenix, Ariz., which is currently being done, Howard said.

He said the home had previously been operated under the direction of HAW in Region Four. Currently 10 adolescent girls are being cared for. The girls range in age from 14 to 17 and come from all over the state.

He said the girls participate in domestic duties around home and also spend some time learning to sew and cook, work on career preparation and catching up on school work. During the summer, many of the girls held jobs at Boise businesses.

Howard said the home is staffed by Mr. and Mrs. Mark Griffin. Griffin is head of the music program for the Boise School District, giving him close contact with school board officials and teachers.

Howard said, "It has been interesting to me that the name of this organization was Idaho Youth Ranch instead of Idaho Boys' Ranch. It is as though the founder had the idea of including girls in the program sometime, somewhere, somehow. With the addition of the Girls' Group Home in Boise at long last we can truly have an Idaho Youth Ranch program."

Access land appraised

PICABO — The Idaho Fish and Game Department is appraising its Silver Creek access land for possible trade with private or governmental agencies.

Regional Director Bill Webb, Jerome, said Monday the department is currently leasing several acres of farmland on the Silver Creek property which is not needed by the department. The department is in the position of acting as farmers on that land, which is not the function of the department, he said.

However, the department is low on acquisition money, Webb said. A trade of equal value to both parties would be welcomed now by the department, he said.

The Fish and Game Department is looking for land to benefit wildlife in the area, he said. The land could be either stream frontage on Silver Creek, Big Wood or Little Wood rivers as well as lands to protect big game migration routes.

However, Webb said, if a trade is made the department will put comments on the farm ground to resources planning. He said at least one private individual in Blaine County has appraised the land and has been negotiating with the department.

In addition, he said, the Idaho Fish and Game Department has been looking at some Little Wood River property currently owned by the Bureau of Land Management.

"The trade will have to be a comparable thing," Webb said. "We will have to obtain something which will benefit wildlife habitat."

Webb said negotiations are "up in the air with a lot of gray matter in between," and he cannot comment on details of possible trade. Until the department has completed appraisal of the farm ground they hold on Silver Creek no deal can be made, he said.

Some other private ground intended for subdivision and development could be higher than the department can afford at this time, he said.

Market Review

NEW YORK (UPI)—Prices plunged along a broad front Monday on the New York Stock Exchange in reaction to growing evidence of a severe recession and rising inflation.

The Dow Jones industrial average was off 13.46 to 624.15 shortly before noon EST. It had been off more than 15 points earlier in the session. In the rout, the average fell 142 in 121 among the 1,607 issues crossing the tape.

The two-hour turnover amounted to about 7,500,000 shares, compared with 5,000,000 traded during the same period Friday.

Wall Street was deeply concerned about the decline in the nation's industrial output. Investors were disappointed in the delay in the ratification of a tentative new coal industry settlement which was putting a nationwide strike about to enter its second week.

Further concern was shown over the plight of the auto industry. There were speculations Chrysler would announce a near total production shutdown for the month of December later in the day. Chrysler lost 1.34 in active trading.

General Motors, which may announce further layoffs was the second most active issue, off 14.23 to 91.10 shares. Ford, which said late last week it was buying off nearly 10,000 more workers, dropped 1.11.

Touchdown in final seconds lets Dolphins edge Buffalo

MIAMI (UPI) — Quarterback Dan Fergerson, quarterbacking the Dolphins, threw a 44-yard pass to Paul Warfield, crossed up the Bills, and a draw play which sent running back Larry Brown into the end zone, edged Buffalo 21-14 in the final seconds Sunday.

The Dolphins, who were in the lead in the final period, held Miami over the Bills into the final seconds of the American Football Conference East Division lead with an 8-2 record. Buffalo fell into second place at 7-3.

With a 49-yard throw to Warfield for a second period touchdown and a 54-yard toss to the first receiver to set up a third score in the third period, the Dolphins comfortably won 21-14.

But then Miami developed a fourth period drive which was picked up by a Mercury Morris fumble and ran it 42 yards to make it 21-14. Moments later, Washington recovered a Nat Jones fumble to set up the third Buffalo score.

Gary Marangi, substiting for quarterback Joe Ferguson who was hurt at the end of the third period, threw a 44-yard scoring pass to J.D. Hill to tie it at 21-21.

Miami came right back, 21 yards in nine plays, with Nottingham running the final 11 yards to put the Dolphins in front 28-21.

But Marangi brought the Bills back 71 yards, throwing to Bob Chandler for the final five to tie at 28-28 with only 56 seconds remaining.

Following the kickoff, it took Grise only 37 seconds and four plays to march Miami 81 yards to victory. Grise threw 31 yards to Warfield and Jim Kiick carried twice for 27 yards to the Buffalo 21. Grise checked off his call at the line when he saw the Bills set up to pass defense and sent Nottingham up the middle through a huge hole.

Manning guides Saints victory

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) —

Artie Manning, operating with a new Saint offensive set, threw two touchdown passes Sunday to give New Orleans a 20-7 upset over Los Angeles.

Using three wide receivers and only one running back, Manning pitched a 70-yard scoring pass to Rob Newland in the second quarter and a 65-yard touchdown pass to rookie Jack Barker in the third period.

Barker's one-handed catch at the goal line gave New Orleans a 20-7 third quarter lead that the Rams never threatened seriously.

Bill McClure kicked a 20-yard field goal in the first half and a 53-yarder on the last play of the first half.

The victory gave second place New Orleans a 4-6 record and dropped Los Angeles to 7-3, preserving the Saints' mathematical chances of winning their first division title. A Rams victory Sunday would have scrapped up the division championship.

Los Angeles did not score until early in the fourth quarter, when quarterback James Harris threw a 17-yard touchdown pass to tight end

Bob Kline.

The Saints' defense held Lawrence McCutcheon, the NFL's leading rusher, to 20 yards, all in the first half.

Harris completed 21 of 36 passes for 122 yards, most of it coming late in the game when he completed seven straight but the Saint defense sacked Harris four times for 72 yards.

Los Angeles threatened to take the lead in the third quarter when they got the ball, but the Saints turned back drives back and into New Orleans scoring drives.

Los Angeles drove to the 20-yard line in the first half, but Harris failed on two straight passes and then Steve Preece, a former Saint, dropped the ball while trying to hold for a David Ray field goal.

After McClure's 20-yard field goal, the Rams drove 56 yards to the Saints' six, but Rob Pollard recovered a Harris fumble and the Saints' then drove 42 yards for a touchdown with Manning hitting Newland on the Rams 45 and Newland running around Preece for the score.

Manning completed 11 of 23 passes for 175 yards. Los Angeles had three of six fumbles in the first half before the artificial turf began to dry from an early morning rain.

Somber Vermont team returns

BURLINGTON, Vt. (UPI) —

A somber University of Vermont football team returned home Sunday, hoping they would play again but doubtful that students and trustees could be rallied to overturn an administration decision to drop the sport.

"It's hard to play when you think nobody cares," said freshman guard Herb Greene after Vermont ended its season with a 41-15 shellacking by American International Saturday.

The players and coach Earl Faltenev agreed after the game, to fight to retain the sport, which is being dropped to save $200,000.

"It's a matter of priorities," Faltenev said. "Whenever you have to be made it's always athletics that carries the brunt."

Football, despite a 77-year tradition, has not received large student or community support in recent years. The budget was smaller than at other Yankee Conference schools and the team never won a conference title. They finished last this year.

There were tears and bitterness in the locker room following the final defeat. "I think they timed it on purpose so that we would lose," said Rocky Thompson, a sophomore wide receiver. The decision was announced on Thursday by President Edward C. Andrews Jr.

"They're just taking it out on us," said sophomore guard Joe Jensen. "Why not take some money out of the other sports?"

Andrews, who skipped the game to go hunting on the first day of the deer season, had explained that across the board cuts in athletics would result in "third-rate programs" in all sports.

Michigan ready for showdown

COLUMBUS, (UPI) —

Bo Schenckler, summed up the situation in three words: "This is it."

Schenckler will bring his unbeaten and second-ranked Michigan team here Saturday for the annual showdown with Ohio State in a game that will determine the Big Ten title and possibly the national championship.

Michigan crushed Purdue 51-21 Saturday, while Ohio State ranked and once-beaten Buckeyes defeated Iowa 27-21 after leading only 14-0 at halftime.

"This is football," said Schenckler, who once was an assistant in Ohio State coach Woody Hayes. "This is what it's all about, getting ready for the big game."

"I don't have any great reservations about going to Columbus," Schenckler said. "That's the way it ought to be. We had to go out and make sure we won a share of the Big 10 championship. That's important."

Denver meets Chiefs tonight

DENVER (UPI) —

The chances of the Denver Broncos making the NFL playoffs this year are slim. The chances of the Kansas City Chiefs finishing with a better than 500 record are just as limited.

But still, that's what Denver coach John Ralston and Chiefs coach Hank Stram will be looking for when their teams meet Monday night.

Denver, which spent most of the preseason talking about the Super Bowl berth, is 4-4-1 and has been less than impressive even in victory. Before Oakland's game Sunday the Raiders needed only a win combined with a Denver loss to clinch the AFC West title.

But Ralston, who has made a reputation as an all-out optimist, figures his team still has a shot at the AFC wildcard berth.

Before the season started I actually thought we would be 90 now with maybe one loss in three," Stram said.

But Ralston, who last year guided Denver to its first winning season ever, 7-2-2, "But this has been a topsy-turvy season and for that reason I see no reason to think we won't get the wildcard berth."

Stram would settle for a winning record. His team is 3-6, even though it has run up over 400 yards total offense in the last three games, it won only one of them. The Chiefs

Cards defeat Eagles 13-3

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) —

Quarterback Jim Hart swished in from the one in the first quarter and directed St. Louis to a 13-3 triumph over Philadelphia Sunday, putting the Cardinals in excellent position to win the National Football Conference Eastern Division title.

Hart made the one-yard kick stand up for the victory that boosted the Cardinals' record to 4-2 with only four games remaining against weaker opponents.

Jim Bakken kicked fourth period field goals of 28 and 40 yards for the other St. Louis points.

Hart answered a 67-yard drive in six plays for the decisive touchdown. Jim Ots started the drive by breaking two tackles for a 19-yard run. Hart tried a 15-yard pass to Earl Thomas, and a nine-yarder to Terry Metcalfe, who made a leaping catch at the one yard line to set up the score.

Tom Dempsey, who was shot in a 45-yard field goal attempt on the final play of the first half, booted a 38-yarder to put the Eagles to within 7-13 late in the third period.

Early quarterback Roman Gabriel, playing scheduled on offensive line, weakened, to injuries to two regulars, was sacked nine times by the Cardinals defense and in tercepted once. Gabriel completed 18 of 29 passes for 170 yards, but the Cardinals held the Eagles to 64 yards rushing.

Metcalfe rushed 17 times for 97 yards and Jim Ots added 84 net yards that completed 101 of 216 for 100 yards.

The Eagles' best touchdown play went away when Harold Carmichael let a Gabriel pass roll off his fingers while he was open at the Cardinal 20 yard line in the second period. Carmichael also fumbled the ball over to the Cardinals after a pass reception at the St. Louis 33.

Steelers top Cleveland 26-16

CLEVELAND (UPI) —

J.T. Thomas ran 14 yards with a fourth period fumble recovery for the winning touchdown Sunday as the Pittsburgh Steelers held their AFC Central Division lead with a 21-16 victory over the Cleveland Browns.

Mean Joe Greene recovered a fumble by Billy Fife at the Browns' 24 and laterated to Thomas, who swept in for the first pro score as the Steelers' beat the Browns here for the first time in 10 years.

Greene also intercepted a pass in the first half, his first career interception, which set up a field goal by Ray Gaska as the Steelers built their record to 7-2-0.

Steelers fullback Franco Harris ran for only one yard in the first half, but he carried and Terry Hanratty made his first start of the season at quarterback for Pittsburgh. He completed only two of 15 passes for 61 yards, but both came in a first period drive ending in a 28-yard touchdown pass to Ron Shanklin.

Hanratty, who was intercepted three times, threw his first touchdown pass, the 28-yarder to Shanklin's first scoring catch.

Cleveland opened the scoring on a 37-yard field goal, which was answered by Shanklin's touchdown and a 28-yard field goal by Gaska.

Coffert hit from 35 yards before Greene's interception set up Gaska's second 22-yarder for a 13-0 Pittsburgh lead at the half.

On the third play of the second half, Larry Brown judged a Hanratty pass and Cleveland's Van Green took it away and ran 40 yards for a tying touchdown.

Coffert and Gaska then traded field goals in the third quarter before Thomas' winning touchdown, with Gaska adding one more field goal late in the game.

Underdog Colts whip Atlanta

ATLANTA (UPI) —

Marty Domres caught the Atlanta defense napping Sunday when he scored on a 12 yard quarter back keeper in the closing seconds of the first half and Rexel Mitchell rushed for 53 yards, 25 of them in the second half.

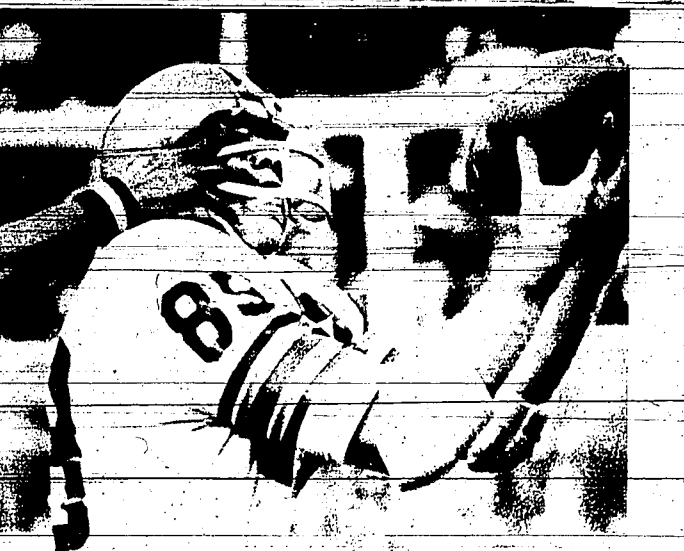

Haltmore Colts beat the Falcons 17-7 for their second victory of the season.

The Falcons took their only lead in the game with 2:11 left in the first half when rookie Haskell Statteck broke loose on a 23-yard scoring scamper to give Atlanta a 7-0 edge.

But the Colts capitalized on a fumble recovery 23 yards to the Atlanta 40 and drove 42 yards just before halftime with Domres going the final 12 yards, to take the lead for good at 10-7.

The first scoring in the game came on a 57-yard field goal by Austrian Toni Linhart with 1:01 left in the second period.

The Colts scored again with 4:34 left in the game on a

MILT MORIN, CLEVELAND TE, managed to hang onto the ball despite a hand belonging to J.T. Thomas, Pittsburgh LCB, hanging onto his helmet in third quarter action. Steelers won 26-16. (UPI Telephoto).

FORECAST FOR TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 19, 1974

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Consider what you really want and plan to make it a part of your everyday living. Then discuss with good friends how to gain your mutual personal aims.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Your friends have the key to your day's success, so see them and gain their views, assistance. Enjoy social pleasure in p.m.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Do whatever will improve your community and make you happier where you live. Back a bigwig who's doing a fine job.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Get out into the world and accomplish more. Look to an outgoing person for ideas for your advancement. Be ambitious.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Carry through with promises made. Do whatever will improve your romance. But don't be extravagant now.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Talk over mutual aims with partners. You can easily win over one who has been opposed to you. Control your temper.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Be level-headed and get duties done. Dress more stylishly and make a better impression on others. Don't be so old-fashioned.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) A good day to gad about socially once important tasks are done. The romantic side of life can be pleasant. Avoid tangents.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Pay more attention to home and kin-to improve the whole situation there. "Entertain" in p.m. Take no chances with strangers.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Make appointments early with persons who can help you get ahead. Do important shopping. Spend within your means.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Plan how to have a greater income in the future to make your personal life smoother. Listen to what a clever business contact says.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Take treatments for more vitality, then off to be with persons who can aid you in business or social life. Pleasurable evening.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Use more modern methods to get ahead faster. Enjoy some hobby with the one you love in p.m. Have a delightful time.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be a "lover of humanity," will get along with almost everyone, and can become a real success in life provided you teach early ways to consider the other fellow's feelings. Otherwise this could become a grasping personality. Much strength in this character if given the right early guidance. Send to schools of own choice.

Young lady, if your hip measurement is exactly nine inches greater than your waist measurement, you can consider yourself in pretty good shape. If eight inches or less make the difference, you're either a little plump or thick-waisted. And if the difference amounts to 12 inches or more, your center of gravity is low. Too low. Far too low. Or so an expert on the matter reports.
